Its British and Berber origins from North Africa, an amazing cultural mix that has helped to forge its artistic identity as part of the "automatic writing" movement it modernizes the ethnic style and questions us visually.

ESSENTIAL

Exhibitions and Important Performances

Exhibition at the Espace Pierre Cardin in 2002 // 22 works signed Marie Ben.

She is just 20 years old, a founding moment marking the beginning of an ambitious artistic journey and yet... Marie considered it premature to capitalize on this success. Driven by a quest for personal enrichment and excellence, she made the decision to withdraw in order to deepen her knowledge, refine her technique and mature her artistic expression. Nine years passed before she reached this subtle balance between letting go and mastery of her major subject... The profile and its hidden truths.

Creation of the 'My Human' endowment fund

Rehumanizing the digital age.

Marie has always been animated by a deep conviction: Faced with the rise of the virtual, art, sport and culture are the last ramparts to preserve our humanity. It is this vision that led her to create My Human, a bold project that challenges the dehumanization caused by digital technology and offers artistic and cultural solutions to reconnect individuals to reality.

A Legacy to Preserve

For her, the history of humanity is much more valuable than any technological innovation. She refuses to see the new generations get lost in a virtual world disconnected from reality. This is why My Human relies on artistic and sporting experiences to bring the human back to the heart of concerns. A Strong and Committed Vision, My Human, is a movement that transcends disciplines.

She created three major artistic axes to get her message across

My Human Arts : Works of art created live and materialized in RealCoin, a nod to Bitcoin, to make the virtual tangible. A concept that has already seduced the NBA and personalities like Joeystar.

My Human Dance : Multicultural sports choreographies that illustrate the diversity and energy of the moving body.

My Human Sound : Committed music that defends the values of humanity. Lenny Kravitz, with his video 'Human', is a perfect example of this commitment by denouncing the overconsumption of screens.

Innovative Initiatives

To give a real scope to her project, she has developed concrete tools:

My Human DigiDetox: An initiative to raise awareness of digital drifts and encourage a more conscious use of technologies.

My Human Friends: A labeled social network guaranteeing the authenticity of interactions and respect for humanist values.

My Human Wear: A committed brand, meaningful, which visually embodies the commitment of the project.

Through My Human, Marie Field advocates a return to the essentials: the human before the digital. His ambition? Create a movement that not only alerts, but offers concrete alternatives to re-enchant our relationship with the real world.
